The image displays two keyboard layouts. The left layout is a standard QWERTY keyboard with a red highlight on the L6 key. The right layout is a modified keyboard with a yellow highlight on the Shift key.

The diagram illustrates a German keyboard layout. The top row includes keys for 'de' (grave accent), 'de' (circumflex), 'de' (dollar sign), 'de' (caret), 'de' (double right quote), '«', and an empty space. The second row features 'Tab', 'X|cut', 'V|past e', 'L', 'C|copy', 'W', 'Hype r', and an empty space. The third row shows 'L3', 'U', 'I', 'A|all', 'E', 'O', and 'Meh'. The fourth row contains 'Shift (', 'Ü', 'Ö', 'Ä', 'P', 'Z|rever t', and an empty space. The fifth row has 'FN', 'Left Ctrl', 'Left Alt', the Windows logo, and a key with a tilde symbol. Below the main keyboard, there are two additional sections: a numeric keypad area with 'L6', 'L4', and 'L5' keys, and a function area with 'Shift (', a Windows logo key, and a 'Del' key.
